

Rui GUO

Docteur

Université de Lorraine /
ORH

Rui GUO est docteur en sciences de gestion au laboratoire CEREFIGE de l'Université de Lorraine. Elle se consacre principalement à la recherche sur les relations de travail et les ressources humaines.

Fonctions

@Laboratoire CEREFIGE – Docteur en Sciences de Gestion

Email :

rui.guo@univ-lorraine.fr

Alma mater :

Northwestern Polytechnical
University

Sujet(s) de recherche :

Labor relations
Economic performance
Human resource management

Publications académiques

5 documents

Articles dans une revue1 document

- Rui Guo, Patrice Laroche. The effects of trade unions on economic performance: evidence from Chinese provincial-level data. International Journal of Manpower, 2021, 42 (6), pp. 1084-1101. .

Communications dans un congrès3 documents

- Rui Guo, Patrice Laroche. Union membership and job satisfaction: Evidence from China. 71st Annual Meeting of the Labor and Employment Relations Association (LERA), Jun 2019, Cleveland, United States.
- Rui Guo, Patrice Laroche. Union membership effects on wages in China: Results from propensity score matching. 3rd Human Resource Division International Conference (HRIC), Jan 2019, Dublin, Ireland.
- Rui Guo, Patrice Laroche. Union density changes and unions effects on economic performance: Evidence from Chinese provincial-level data. 54th Annual Conference of the Canadian Industrial Relations

Association (CIRA), May 2017, Toronto, Canada.

Thèses1 document

- Rui Guo. Labor relations and economic performance in China : three empirical studies. Business administration. Université de Lorraine, 2022. English. .

Documents récupérés de l'archive ouverte HAL